Each in a Vial

You make Jiffy-Jell—like other gelatine desserts—by pouring boiling water on it. This boiling water would scald the flavor if it came mixed with the gelatine, as usual.

In Jiffy-Jell you add the flavor when the jell has partly cooled. So you get the fresh fruit flavor.

The New Way of Buying Fresh Oysters

In This Air-Tight, No-Metal Package
Just As They Left the Sea

Nature protects the oyster in a thick, strong shell, clean and pearly-white inside. But man, in shipping oysters, has not until now been able to equal Nature's methods of keeping the oyster fresh and pure.

Bulk-shipped methods have always meant danger from germ-laden air and from dirt, and contamination from metal.

But the TRUPAKT system now wipes out all excuse for buying bulk-shipped oysters.

It enables you to get fresh oysters from the TRUPAKT agencies in a germ-proof, no-metal package. It comes to you sealed air-tight just as it left the seashore.

TRUPAKT No-Bulk OYSTERS

Overnight Shipments—Sealed from Sea to Home

Your storekeeper gets these oysters by overnight shipments. They are always on ice. Even in the store they are kept in a special TRUPAKT vending refrigerator.

This is the way we have solved the many-year problem of putting on your table oysters that are pure, fresh and smacking of the sea.

The TRUPAKT method is the perfect method—the result of a great invention—the No-Metal Napacan.

No Other Oysters In Sterile Napacans

TRUPAKTS are the only oysters that come in the germ-proof Napacan. It is made of stout paper, pressed layer on layer and impregnated with paraffin. That seals all the pores air-tight and makes this container water-proof. It is already light-proof. And contains no metal to rust or corrode from contact with the oysters and their juices.

Bulk-shipped oysters stand in metal cans. TRUPAKT Oysters never touch metal. They are never opened in the stores. They are never ladled out with dippers into dusty paper pails.

No hands touch TRUPAKTS. Light, which injures quality, cannot reach them. No water can soak them and rob them of their flavor.

Such oysters you know are pure. The frosty freshness of the deep is still upon them when you break the seal before eating. TRUPAKTS are more than wholesome food—they're a royal treat!

Yet TRUPAKT prices are low—lower, in fact, than meat, eggs or similar foods.

Small Family Size 15c Larger Size 30c a Package

Don't run chances by buying bulk-shipped oysters, and don't deny yourself this luscious sea-food. Eat TRUPAKTS cooked or raw.

Order today and insist on TRUPAKT Oysters in the ice-cold, germ-proof Napacan. Any authorized TRUPAKT dealer can supply you.

TRUPAKT, Inc. General Sales Office, MILWAUKEE
Oyster Packing Rooms at the Beds on the Sea Coast

NOTE: Trupakts are always shipped exclusively by fast express—never by freight. Most bulk oysters in this territory are shipped by slow freight to the jobbers.

By receiving Trupakt oysters exclusively by express we are able to get them to you from six to ten days fresher than most other oysters you can buy in this territory.

Practically all bulk shipped oysters contain 2 or 3 per cent unknown hydrant water, added after the oysters are received at interior.

are not as cheap as they seem when you consider that you are paying at the rate of $2 per gallon for the hydrant water they contain.

No water is added to Trupakt oysters. They are packed solid meat, and are sealed right at the oyster beds in the same individual, sterile package you open in your kitchen. The package which sells for 30c contains from 30 to 33 oysters—enough for a family of from four to five people. They are just as cheap or cheaper than bulk shipped oysters sold at a less price per so-called pint.

WORDS OF WARNING.

The Wall Street Journal issues a timely word of warning to this country when it says:

"There is a process in speculation not confined to the stock market, but common enough in grain, cotton, coffee, leather, and even real estate, which is called 'pyramiding' and lays the foundations for future panic. The successful speculator makes money on his first margin transaction. But by those paper profits he adds to his commitments, and as the price advances in a boom market he becomes thoroughly extended, with the consequence that a collapse finds him defenseless, although on paper he has made large gains."

"There is a danger that our prosperity, due to the war, has something of the same character. It is time, in fact, to offer a word of caution lest it prove that we have been pyramiding prosperity in the same way. A limited number of people have made large fortunes, which they are reinvesting in enterprises likely to benefit by the continuance of the war in Europe. A much larger number of people have not benefited by this prosperity, but on the contrary, have been hard hit by the advanced cost of living."

"This applies more particularly to the professional class and those in receipt of salaries, as, for instance, the clerical forces of the banks and trust companies. These have seen their cost of living advance by leaps and bounds, while there has been no corresponding increase in their remuneration. They are not unionized, nor have they any friends in the White House or in congress. They cannot even make a bluff at delivering a vote which would intimidate the politician, even if the politician could do anything to remedy a condition entirely beyond his understanding or his power."

"It is true that by comparing our exports with our imports we can show an enormous paper balance in our favor. But these exports are valued not on the volume of the commodities sold abroad, but at the inflated prices here, which the war has created. In other words, they do not represent an increase in the world's wealth; and so far as crops are concerned there is a decrease in volume which would terrify us in sober times."

"We have a per capita circulation of money which already spells dangerous inflation, and is greater than that of any country in the world. With the advance in wages and occasional sensational headlines a large part of our people find it harder to make ends meet. Even meat and bread are dearer in New York than they are in London, where they are already talking of bread tickets and a food censor."

"Is this not a time to go slow, to encourage investment abroad as a safeguard for the inevitable slump after the war, and to check speculation in all departments down to the safety limit? We are too prone to spend extravagantly when we are easily prosperous. What will be our real resource against collapse with the termination of war and the inevitable slump of war orders, war prices and war frolics?"

LEGISLATIVE DIGNITY.

The election of a woman member of congress, representing the state of Montana, has given the newspaper paragraphers much material for pillage. The public of course will differ as to the significance of this event, according to whether one holds feminist views or not. But, however one feels, it is to be hoped that women will be able to make some betterment in the manners of our lawmakers."

Congress has long been called the most unmanly of the world's great legislative bodies. Even if the visitor does not find the traditional feet up on the desks, he at least will see evidence of chattering and hear much raucous conversation while members are trying to speak."

There is something wrong when there are but two or three dozen members out of a great house present to hear discussions. If the discussion is worthless, there should be some way to abridge it. If the debate has value, the house should be present to hear it. The public does not take seriously either congress or the state legislatures. The lawmakers have themselves to blame for that. When a visitor enters the Capitol gallery at Washington, he feels a certain awe, reflecting that he is looking down on the greatest law-making body of the world. But when he finds a group out of every twenty members out of their seats and the rest inattentive, he is disappointed."

This is a shirt sleeves country. Our people are unconventional, they dislike formalities and fuss and feathers. But when a great historic body meets, it should conduct itself in a manner worthy of its ancient setting."

A state legislator should include many members that have no personal dignity of their own. But the body as a whole is a historic inheritance from the American pioneers. It is the representative of the state power, its past history and aspirations for the future. Its sessions should be appropriate to all it stands for. Here is a field for the efforts of the women members."

THANKFUL THANKSGIVING.

The pupils of the high school have again undertaken Thanksgiving work by seeing to it that many needy families have ample provender for the day and a bit left over for the next. It is most commendable work and one which reaches the donors the rare gift of giving with a free and generous heart. It will be a thankful Thanksgiving for the recipients of their largesse and should make the day more pleasing for those who took part in the making of the gifts possible. You can not begin too young to inculcate the thought of thinking for others, doing for others less fortunate.

ENGLAND DECRIES MEAT CONSUMPTION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 28.—A million pounds or $6,000,000, could be saved in a fortnight if everyone would agree to go without meat on one day each week, says the newest appeal to the public to cut down their meat consumption made by the National War Savings committee, making a similar appeal for economy, urged the public to agree to one meatless day each week, but apparently it has fallen on deaf ears.

At present high prices the civilian population of this country now eats about 500,000 tons of meat every day, according to figures compiled by the war savings committee, which finds that this is due to the habit of eating meat—beef, mutton, pork or bacon—two or three times a day.

"Excessive meat eating is a bad habit," adds the committee, "Nothing so radical as going without meat of any kind for a whole day is needed. People who eat meat twice a day should cut down the meat eaten, taking more fish, dried beans, peas, and cheese, and those who eat fish and several kinds of meat at lunch and dinner should have only fish or one variety of meat."

Those not engaged in physical toil are urged to cut down their consumption of meat.

Besides the beneficial effects to the health, the appeal reasons that the demands upon shipping would be lessened, the supplies could be more evenly distributed and a further increase in prices could be avoided.

But Anhwei province is not located along the important north and south railway connecting Peking and Shanghai. Consequently General Chang Hsun has moved his forces to Hanchowfu, in Kiangsu province, where he commands the railway and holds a powerful club over the head of the Peking government, as well as over the various factions which are endeavoring to upset the present government.

Many prominent Chinese who desire to travel from South China and Shanghai to Peking are compelled to make the trip from Shanghai to Tientsin by sea, as they dare not pass through Hanchowfu and run the risk of falling into Chang Hsun's hands.

MANY MUNITION PLANTS BOOST INCOME TAXES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Nov. 28.—It is estimated that tax collections of the internal revenue department for the northern district of Illinois will be increased $2,000,000 or more over last year, because of the tax on munitions of war. There are said to be fifty munition manufacturers in the district.

WHO'D UH THINK IT?

"A clew!" said the great detective suddenly.

With his magnifying glass and his keen sense of smell he had gone from the cellar to the kitchen, then in succession, to the parlor and the living room, and here at last, in the curious little assortment of Mrs. Hyphen-Jenks' sewing table, was his clew.

The great detective carefully separated the articles and looked at each intently under the glass, in the order of their importance, the articles were:

A piece of twine eight inches long. A broken corkscrew.

The tin tops of four beer bottles.

A piece of soap, oddly moulded out of its original shape.

A piece of twine three inches long. And the stump of a candle.

"I have it!" the detective said aloud. Just as Mrs. Hyphen-Jenks entered the room.

"This little forgotten heap of evidence," he told her, "the great detective said to her."

"What?—that pile of rubbish I took out of Johnny's coat pocket when I mended it?" said Mrs. Hyphen-Jenks.

"I give up the case," said the great detective, and withdrew without his magnifying glass.

If the debate has value, the house should be present to hear it. The public does not take seriously either congress or the state legislatures. The lawmakers have themselves to blame for that. When a visitor enters the Capitol gallery at Washington, he feels a certain awe, reflecting that he is looking down on the greatest law-making body of the world. But when he finds a group out of every twenty members out of their seats and the rest inattentive, he is disappointed."

This is a shirt sleeves country. Our people are unconventional, they dislike formalities and fuss and feathers. But when a great historic body meets, it should conduct itself in a manner worthy of its ancient setting."

A state legislator should include many members that have no personal dignity of their own. But the body as a whole is a historic inheritance from the American pioneers. It is the representative of the state power, its past history and aspirations for the future. Its sessions should be appropriate to all it stands for. Here is a field for the efforts of the women members."

THANKFUL THANKSGIVING.

The pupils of the high school have again undertaken Thanksgiving work by seeing to it that many needy families have ample provender for the day and a bit left over for the next. It is most commendable work and one which reaches the donors the rare gift of giving with a free and generous heart. It will be a thankful Thanksgiving for the recipients of their largesse and should make the day more pleasing for those who took part in the making of the gifts possible. You can not begin too young to inculcate the thought of thinking for others, doing for others less fortunate.

SCHOOLS CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING DAY

Each Grade in City to Observe Thanksgiving with Appropriate Celebrations.

Janesville school children will all celebrate Thanksgiving day in an appropriate manner in the various schools on Wednesday afternoon. Plans have been made and programs arranged by the teachers which provide for some sort of celebration in each of the grade rooms of the schools. The programs will begin at half past two. All parents, patrons, and everyone interested in schools of children are cordially invited to attend these affairs. There will be music, readings, declamations, and explanations of the significance and history of Thanksgiving day. The programs have been left to the individual teachers to work out as they see fit, and as the talent of their children directs.

Pupils at the high school will celebrate in a bit more material way by contributing baskets of food to the needy of the city. Officials at the school are working in co-operation with the Salvation Army and the Associated Charities in obtaining the names of needy families to which the baskets can be given. Each student brings whatever he can, and the domestic science department prepares the baskets as to include as great an assortment as possible. Those pupils who have automobiles or buggies are asked to aid in delivering the baskets. Last year forty-one baskets were made up.

FUNERAL EVANSVILLE SUICIDE TO BE TOMORROW.

Evansville, Nov. 28.—Funeral services for the late Frank Wright, who committed suicide at his home on North Madison street early yesterday morning, will be held at tomorrow at 10 o'clock from the home. Interment will be made in the Maple Hill cemetery and the Rev. Dr. Pearce of the Baptist church will officiate. Frank Wright formerly was employed by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad company at their local pumping station but owing to severe illness he had not been working for the past few months. Owing to his ill health and heart trouble and poor condition, the deceased had been confined to his bed for some days and had been eating his brother's food. Sunday morning, Nov. 27, at about 10 o'clock, Wright was found by his brother, Charles, who had been called by the telephone to come to the house. Wright was found lying on his back in the bed, with his head under a pillow and his hands clasped over his face. He had been dead for some time. The body was removed to the morgue and the police were notified. The cause of the suicide is being investigated by the police.

Frank Wright's death was a great loss to his family. He was a kind and gentle man and was well liked by all who knew him. His death was a sudden and unexpected one. The family is now in mourning and the funeral will be a simple one. The Rev. Dr. Pearce will deliver the funeral sermon and the burial will be in the Maple Hill cemetery.

The body of Mrs. William Greene, who died at her home on Sunday, Nov. 27, will be buried at 10 o'clock tomorrow. The funeral will be held at the home and the Rev. Lawrence Hill will officiate. Mrs. Greene was a devoted wife and mother and was well known in the community. Her death was a great loss to her family.

The annual Thanksgiving musical festival of the local Junior League will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Congregational church. The program will include songs, plays and a variety of musical numbers. The Junior League is a charitable organization that works for the betterment of the community.

NEWS NOTES - EVANSVILLE

Hereafter whenever you read a subtitle on a Douglas Fairbanks picture that makes you laugh take mental note that it was written by Miss Anita Loos of the scenario department, by request of Mr. Fairbanks himself.

Among Miss Loos' successes are numbered "American Aristocracy," "The Social Secretary," "Stranded," and "His Picture in the Papers." And she weighs only 88½ pounds after a hearty dinner.

ALICE IS A WONDER. Don't get the impression that movie actresses are all recruited from handmaidens and ribbon counters and that they hit less than .006% in the intellectual league.

Pretty Alice Joyce for one is a miss of many accomplishments. And now she has become a sculptor. In addition to her artistic ability in dancing, sketching and modeling the baby she has begun plastic modeling.

She has made busts of her husband, her mother, her sister-in-law and her baby. And, take it from the press agent, they look like them, too.

OFFICER, THIS WAY, PLEASE! Walking on all fours is advocated by William Farnum as the best way of keeping a film fighting fellow in trim. When our ancestors on the border land, between animal and man, abandoned the four-footed method of locomotion in favor of the dignified style of today, they doomed humanity to all its present ills, according to Bill. He says he jumps around on all fours for fifteen minutes before breakfast every day.

CLARA'S REPERTOIRE. Clara Kimball Young, like most stars in the movies, is to be identified with a series of stories. The "Common Law" from the novel by Robert W. Chambers, is to be followed by her appearance in "The Foolish Virgin" from the novel by Thomas Dixon. Then comes "The Price She Paid" and a movie from Eugene Walter's play, "The Easiest Way."

Mary Pickford, one learns, cherished an intention to do Juliet and show up Beverly Bayne and Theda Bara, who lately played this role in rival productions of "Romeo and Juliet."

Mabel Talliaferro was born on a train bound from Virginia to New York. Eddie? He is so headstrong and will have you tried to show the child he must suffer himself for his misdeeds. We commend the action of a mother we were able to observe recently and we believe she rebuked her child in a way he will not soon forget.

An elderly grandmother was visiting in the home and the gentle old soul, being quite helpless without her glasses asked little Gus, four years old, to help her in the search for them. The dear old lady promised the child the reward of a peppermint candy if he found them.

"Stick your peppermint up the flue!" said the child harshly, swagging from the room. "Very well, Gussie. You shall NOT have the peppermint candy," said his mother firmly. "Our next Little Chat will be with husbands. How to enjoy your Home Life."

What the Cow Said "Mr. Cow, why in sin, 'Won't you kindly tell me why, You forever was your chin?" Asked the fly.

Said the cow, "Mr. Fly, That I'll gladly tell to you, If you ask as much of I— 'Cause I chew!"

An Imperishable Gem To the Editor: Can you tell the name of the author of the poem beginning "I have a little puppy dog with hairs upon its tail." This poem is so often found in scrapbooks and has given pleasure to so many that it seems its author should be better known.

This little gem has often been incorrectly attributed to Mrs. Ellen Wheeler Wilcox. Its simplicity and great purity of thought having much to suggest the work of that gifted poetess. It is, however, from the pen of Mr. Francis X. Bushman.

Mr. Bushman in His Youth, who in his youth displayed a rare poetic fancy. The complete poem follows:

I have a little puppy dog With hairs upon its tail, Oh, comma how it saddens me Whenever I hear him wail!

But puppy dogs must sometimes wail. They have their little cares. Mine often wails, I'm sure because His tail is full of hair!

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Four slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a firmness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

THE BESSEY COMPANY OPENS FOR THE WEEK

Popular Stock Company Greeted at Opening Performance by Large and Enthusiastic Audience Last Night at New Myers Theatre.

As popular as ever, Jack Bessey and company opened their annual week's engagement at Myers Theatre last night. A large first night audience was on hand and the first bill of the week was enthusiastically received.

There are a number of new faces in the company this year, which adds materially to the strength of the cast, the ability of these stock actors must go unquestioned.

The People's Lecture course gives its first entertainment tonight at the Methodist Church when the Concert Favorites, a high class vocal and musical organization present their pleasing concert.

Miss Johnston is one of the few who both sing and read well. In each line of work she has met with unusual success, both while one of the members of "The Lyceum Players" and in "The Concert Favorites" Company.

"The Concert Favorites" Company soprano voice, very flexible, and of dramatic quality. Miss Shearer's voice is a deep, rich contralto of unusual sweetness, and especially adapted to folk songs, which is one of the most popular parts of the program of this company.

Miss Bales and Miss Shearer have done concert work in the same company, even previous to becoming members of the Concert Favorites. This, with the fact that each other are unusually suited to each other, has brought their duet work to a high degree of excellence. Their costume singing is a feature that is very attractive, and includes classical songs, Gypsy, Dutch, and others.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a young man for almost a year. He hasn't gone with any other girl until lately and I haven't gone with any other fellow. About a month ago I heard that he was out with a girl. I was so angry that I told him that he could choose between me and her. I made him angry. I told him that I wouldn't be dictated to about the girls he goes with. He hasn't been to see me since and now he is going with her. What can I do to win him back? I supposed that he would be back in a better mood than the other girl and would give him up. I am sure that you will help me.

Now, however, I think you better ask to what you have done and not ask the boy that you realize your mistake unless he comes back of his own accord. Probably you have lost him, but there is a small chance that he liked you well enough to want to come back some time. Wait and see what happens.

The mysterious "Mr. Unknown" who addressed a letter to this department some time ago in which he stated that this column was a "thrash"—meaning "trash," we suspect—and that a girl who wouldn't submit to hugs and kisses from the young man wasn't worth having, still continues to be the target for much caustic comment from our readers. Many letters condemning "Mr. Unknown" have been received from young men and young women alike. Here is a typical one:

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am very much interested in your column but have never written to you before. I would like to say a few words. "Mr. Unknown," whose letter was published in a recent issue of this paper, you are mistaken when you say there is not a fellow in the whole world who would quit a girl because she let him kiss her. I would myself, especially if I had to spend all my money on her to get it. If you want a girl just to hug and kiss, you can have her; nobody else will try to get her away from you.

There are decent ways of getting acquainted with a girl. Did you ever try going to parties or to church? Your way of getting an introduction is the method of the street loafer.

One more word: any person who would write such a letter as the one you wrote Mrs. Thompson is what I call anything but a gentleman.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How old should a boy be before he keeps company with a girl? I am fifteen years old, but people always take me for eighteen, nineteen or twenty. I know a very nice girl and I have gone with her for about a year and a half. Is it wrong for us to go roller skating?

(2) How old should a girl be to keep company with a boy?

(3) My face is all full of pimples and they break out terribly. I have used all kinds of remedies, but they don't help. Can you tell me anything to do for them?

(4) Sometimes I feel as though I wouldn't care to live if anything went wrong between this girl and me. How can I forget this?

THANK YOU.

(1) You are too young to go roller skating at night.

(2) She should be eighteen.

(3) Consult a doctor. If remedies have failed to help, you need medical attention.

(4) Keep busy with your school work or other kind of work you may like to do, and your studies.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How often should a young girl write to a boy?

(2) How old should a girl be before she marries?

(3) After sending a manuscript to one magazine and having it returned, would it be all right to send it to another? I have sent three to E. B. S.

(4) It wouldn't be wise to write more than once in two weeks, and at the most, once a week.

(5) A girl should not marry until she is at least twenty. I believe.

(6) It would be all right. But if you doubt the worth of your manuscript it would be unwise to waste postage on it.

Household Hints

MINGEMEAT.

New, easy way to make mince-meat.

Take four pounds Hamburg steak, one-half pound suet ground, four quarts cooking apples, run through food chopper, two pounds raisins, one pound currants, one-half pint sweet cider, one tablespoon salt, juice and grated rind of one lemon (one pint of any fruit juice improves it), some peach juice, two pounds brown sugar, one pint corn syrup, a good lump of butter, tablespoon each of cinnamon, cloves and ginger, teaspoon pepper, four nutmegs grated, all together in a porcelain kettle, mix well, let come to boiling point, and simmer about ten minutes. If too sweet, add more cider. If too sour, add more sugar.

The above formula may be varied to suit different tastes or the material at hand. Pour all into a crock and put in a cool place, cover tight. When making pies add a little water.

SOUP HELPS.

When making vegetable soup, tie the meat, with bone broken, in a cloth. Then remove the bone and the meat used for hash, croquettes, meat pie, etc.

To remove grease from the soup cut round of clean brown wrapping paper, a little smaller than the kettle, and lay one at a time on the hot soup. Leave a minute, till saturated with the fat, and remove; continue till the fat is absorbed. If you wish to save the fat for cooking purposes, set soup kettle in dishpan of cold water. The fat will rise to the top and can be skimmed off with a spoon.

If you use a beef shank, before putting in the soup kettle cut the meat from the straight part of the bone, containing the marrow, about an inch thick, lay on milk toast, and bake five minutes. Or cut bones separately and push the marrow out with toast which has been covered with tomato sauce. Good breakfast or lunch dish.

THE TABLE.

Chocolate Pie Without Eggs—One and one-half pints milk, two level tablespoons cocoa, two heaping tablespoons cornstarch, one teaspoon vanilla. Scald the milk, adding pinch of salt. Mix sugar, cocoa and cornstarch, stirring into the scalded milk, let cook through, remove from the stove, flavor with vanilla and pour into crust which has been previously baked. If a fancy touch is desired, chocolate drops may be dropped over the top when the pie is cool.

Fruit and Nut Bread—Doesn't cost much to make and is very good. Very good soup milk, one-half cup molasses, two teaspoons baking soda, one cup seeded raisins, one-half cup chopped nut meats, one-half cup stoned and chopped dates, two cups white flour, one cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt. Put dry ingredients into a bowl, add molasses mixed with soda, mix and add sugar. Beat two minutes. Then divide into two loaves and bake for an hour in moderate oven.

Boston Brown Bread—One cup cornmeal, one cup rye flour, one cup wheat flour, two cups New Orleans molasses, two cups sweet milk, one cup sour milk, one heaping teaspoon soda, one teaspoon salt. Mix the dry ingredients, then add the molasses, sour milk and butter. Pour in the mixture, cover, put in a kettle of cold water and boil four hours. The bread should not be put in the pan until it must have room to swell. See that the water does not boil to the top of the pan, also that it does not stop boiling. Before serving remove the lid and let the bread steam for five minutes. It will then cut in excellent shape.

Chicken and Macaroni—(This old Italian method of preparing the delicacy was furnished by a woman who came from the country.) Macaroni: One chicken (or pork chops), one-half box macaroni, small onion, fry chicken, cook the macaroni until done, then drain. Fry the chicken in butter until nicely browned, remove to platter and fry a small onion in skillet used to fry chicken; when onion is done, add the macaroni, mix and cook until thick then pour over macaroni and season with salt and pepper to taste. For a change, grate cheese over the macaroni. One who has tried the tomato soup, if desired, the chicken can be first stewed, before frying.

Baltimore Sump—Put on a cup of honey with a generous supply of hot water; let cook for eight or ten hours. Boiling water added when necessary. Thus cooked, it will keep for several days in a cool place. For breakfast, add butter and cream, and serve with the maple syrup.

Baked Beans—One pound navy beans, one-half pound bacon (ground), one cup molasses, one cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cayenne pepper. Mix all together well, cover with boiling water, bake all day with a very slow fire. Will serve eight persons.

Nourishing Vial Soup—Boil a piece of veal suitable for a fricassee, pie or hash. When tender take meat up and slip out the bones; put bones back in kettle and boil two hours; then strain the liquor and stand away until next day. When wanted, take off the fat, put the soup into a clean pot, add pepper, salt and onion; boil for half an hour. Broil one-half cup each of raisins and nuts in flour, and stir in.

Chili Con Carne—Drain liquor from one small can tomatoes, chop tomatoes fine, put in large stew pan, add one Like every W. K. Kellogg package, Krumbs is protected by Waxite—the perfect seal.

OLD AGE IS A STATE OF MIND

(Longevity Series.)

Old age is curable if taken in time. It is nothing more than a state of mind, a bad habit. Dr. Cannon, professor of physiology at Harvard, has beautifully demonstrated upon the secretion of adrenin, the principle produced by the adrenal glands. In his classical experiments he proved that anger, anxiety, fear, worry, and other similar emotions exert a marked influence upon the functional activity of these glands through the sympathetic nervous system.

Nothing ages an individual so quickly as worry. Worry is a diluted fear. Why worry? What are you afraid of? Afraid you may die? We all have to die sooner or later. Afraid you are going to be sick? Well, if you worry about it you surely will be sick pretty soon. A very good definition of certain types of disease is this, from a source we won't mention: Disease arises from association calling up the fear that creates the image of disease and its consequent manifestation in the body. It doesn't work very well for fractures, hemorrhages, tumors and other things that are hard for one to wish on himself, but it works nicely for dyspepsia, liver complaint, neurasthenia, insomnia, hypochondria and practically all the other best definition ever invented for hysteria.

We have occasionally insisted here that overwork is not a cause of disease. Certainly it is not a cause of old age. Hard work never hurts the body. The coincident worry and mental strain, the abuse of alcohol, tobacco and sometimes drugs, and

MAKING CHRISTMAS A FARCE

There are also some things that Christmas is a farce. One is self-indulgence under the pretense of generosity, or rather, thinking you are generous when you are only doing something for yourself.

What I mean is this. A well-to-do person gives her well-to-do relative some handsome linen, which she knows the latter wants but does not quite like to buy herself; while the well-to-do relative in turn spends about the same amount of money for a handsome desk set, which she has never given herself. What is there wrong in their doing this? Nothing. The wrong consists in that each feels that she has been generous. How wrong she has been generous than if each went out and bought what she wanted?

Being Hateful to People Because You Are Overworking.

Another thing that makes Christmas a farce is being cross and irritable and generally unlovable in the holiday season, because you are working so hard that you cannot command your temper.

Another is giving because convention demands it, gifts that you don't want to give, that you actually grudge and feel resentful about.

Another is being snappy and disagreeable to those who serve you on your Christmas shopping tours.

Some Ways To Make Christmas A Reality.

There are also some things that make Christmas closer to what it was meant to be.

One is letting your thoughts wander back into old times, and writing some little Christmas message straight out of your heart to some of those friends of the auld lang syne.

Another is giving to the poor, and giving not in the spirit of patronage, but of one who humbly pays part of a great debt.

For the Child of the Empty Stocking.

Another is remembering that Christmas is the day of the child, and giving not only to the children of your own family and relatives, who doubtless have more gifts than they can digest, but to the child who has but little.

Another is trying to fill yourself so full of the Christmas spirit of love and good will towards all men, that, as you go about your shopping and your Christmas preparations, some of it shall spill over into your relations with others and make you more considerate and friendly to outsiders and more tender to your own.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Pellagra.

Please explain the nature of pellagra. It is known in the northern states of Canada. Is it curable?

Answer—The cause of pellagra is not yet known, but those who have investigated believe it is due to deficiency of vitamins and perhaps to an insufficient variety in the diet. It is rare in the northern states and still more so in Canada. It is curable if recognized early.

A SILENT MATTER.

Mamma.

Mrs. Sterned—What is the matter? Mrs. Sterned—I went through Williams' pockets last night to hunt for change, and I found some letters I gave him to post last week. And I haven't told him because I'll have to tell about my going through his pockets.

PAISLEY SHAWL OF FIFTY YEARS AGO AGAIN IN VOGUE

Finery of Grandmothers Is Latest Fashion Now, and Are Commanding High Prices.

Once more the little hamlet of Paisley in Renfrew, Scotland, is on the map, and again the name of Paisley is on the tongue as it has not been for some fifty odd years—not since the days when every fashionable woman possessed a Paisley shawl or in lieu of other cloak or other wrap.

All over the land women are getting out old shawls from old dust covered trunks and finding in them a variable treasure of the winter's wardrobe. There is really a big demand for old Paisley in the fashionable dressmaker's and milliner's shop and some women have sold their old shawls and gowns for more than they cost when they were new.

Cashmere trimming is also fashionable, though the old cashmere is being cut up into a genuine antique cashmere even to be in the current of fashion. Always valuable cashmere shawls are now veritable treasures. One woman has one for which her grandfather paid $1,000 when he bought it sixty years ago, for her grandmother. And another woman possesses a little shoulder shawl with a scarf a couple of yards wide and four or five long, with ends of the wonderful cashmere work, and the rest of plain black, which cost $100 half a century ago.

These lovely old shawls are really too valuable to cut up for finery that will serve for only a year or two. But they can be very effectively used for their old-fashioned purpose of covering a divan or low couch.

CHICAGO SCHOOL BOYS LIVING ON FARE REDMEN ATE IN EARLY DAYS.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Methods of the Indians and early settlers put to practice in Chicago have beaten the high cost of living on to the streets. Whole wheat bread, corn meal mush, cracked wheat mush, cracked polished rice, and other cereals are served at the school. An occasional variation to macaroni and tomatoes, soups and cocoa are enjoyed and children, formerly undernourished and sickly, are thriving on the diet. Their efficiency has been greatly increased.

They grind their own cereals. That

The Highflyers

"Listen to this," called Marjory. "People used to be afraid of debt; now they realize that nothing is accomplished in life without some urge and a substantial debt."

"Well, I'll read aloud. Don't you want me to read the paper to you?" Marjory shook her head.

"There is nothing interesting in the paper and you don't read well," she said. "You never read the paper to me in the golden days you referred to." She smiled slyly into his face.

"What did we do? I'm blest if I can remember," grinned Tom. "I felt you were ought to do to-night. It is the last of the month and we ought to go over the bills and cast lots to see who is to have a dollar or so on account." Tom was sober.

"That is so diverting, so much better than a picture show," sneered Marjory.

"But it has got to be done. I don't enjoy it any more, thank you. If you would help—"

"Let's not quarrel about the bills, Tom, dear. I'll do as you say. You spend a hundred and fifty dollars of your two hundred and you are filled with wonder as to where the other fifty has gone and naturally you suspect your wife and cavil about every dollar."

"It is bad enough to have no money to spend without having you fuss about the bills. When I have no money to pay for things," Marjory's tone was injured. Tom dropped his hands with a gesture of despair.

"Of course you would never occur to you to do without anything that you happened to fancy," he dropped his chin into his hand.

"I am like a child who must pay for every good thing with the same money," said Marjory sprang up and started for the door. But Tom caught her as she passed his chair.

"There we won't talk about it any more. I see the financial burden is to be mine. I am to have no helpmate in carrying it." He drew her to his knee and stroked her bright hair sadly.

The old fellow wiped off his goggles of green with the tattered bandanna he wore saying, "Betty will holler when she finds her dollar lands her away up on third floor, when she has to climb away up near the sky and sit near a fast floating cloud in old nigger heaven, it's fourteen to seven, she'll put in a kick good and loud. She'll say I'm to blame, that I'm poky and slow, a better seat I could have found, had I but hopped to it, but I would not do it, at falling I'm always a hound. But I had to take what those guys had to sell, I could not create from the air. I could not do better, that's all I could get her, regardless of how she may stare. For I stood in line for an hour and a half, and was lucky to get one at all for 'Doughy The Baker' and 'Nanny the Faker,' that geeser must sure be some doll; for Betty has never been strong for the shows, she says the time spent there is lost, but when, 'She's My Daisy' is billed she goes crazy, she's there then regardless of cost."

Faithful
Friends

"One of my oldest friends
and a mighty reliable
one. Many a cough and cold of mine and my children too has been stopped by Dr. King's New Discovery."
For nearly 50 years Dr. King's New Discovery has been the standard remedy for coughs, colds, croup and such bronchial affections.
At all druggists. Try it.

Good Old Home-Made
Family Cough Remedy

Much better than the Ready-made kind—Really and Cheaply Prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that is in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.
Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Thick (30 cents worth) pure white plum butter and fill the bottle with plain distilled sugar syrup. The total cost is about 50 cents and gives you a full plum of really better cough syrup than you could buy for $2.50.
This pleasant and aver-sweet cough syrup goes right to the cause of cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and breaks the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes. It is really a most effective remedy that is really astonishing.
A day's use will usually overcome the cough and soothe the inflamed membranes. There is nothing better.
This is a most valuable concentrated essence of genuine Norway pine bark, combined with other ingredients used for generations to break up coughs.
To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "coughs of children" with all directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Look for this preparation

REDUCE WEIGHT

Fat men and women who would like to reduce their weight by 10 or 15 pounds should try a little Korein with their meals and note results.
Here is a test worth trying. First weigh yourself and then measure your waist. Then take Korein—one capsule with every meal and one before retiring—for a few weeks. The scale weight and measure will tell their own story, and many fat men and women will believe can easily take off from five to eight pounds in the first 14 days by following this simple method.
Korein does not of itself reduce fat, but mixing with the food, it aims to assist the fat-burning ele-sume the extra fat in all parts of the body.

Korein (commonly known in the pharmaceutical profession as Oil of

IT'S ALL WRONG, BENEDIOT, IT'S ALL WRONG.

The QUARTERBREEDBy
ROBERT AMES
BENNET

(Copyright by Brown & Howell Co.)

Hardy gravely shook hands with him.
"None, this morning," he assured.
"A man cannot afford to cherish enmity. I shall ask you to go with me to the top of the head cliff."
Dupont hesitated, and ended by complying with the request. They found old Ti-own-konza seated in his teepee, waiting for the white chiefs to call a council. When, with Dupont's aid, Hardy explained that he must go away, the noble and chief's stolidity fell from him like a mask, and he rose to cry out in impassioned speech against the departure of the tribe's true friend. Hardy could only express his deep regret, and repeat that he had to obey the orders of his own head chief. When he had explained the report on irrigation that he was mailing to the Indian bureau, he exchanged telling gifts of friendship with the chief and tore himself away.
The policeman was waiting with the mule. Hardy gave him a coin and swung into the saddle.
"One last word, Dupont," he said.
"Kindly tell your daughter what I said about not cherishing enmity."
"How about Mr. Van?" questioned Dupont.

"You need say nothing to him from me. But—" Hardy bent over in the saddle, to bring his stern face near the reader's—"I advise you to watch that young man."
Dupont stood for some time staring after the officer. When he started for his store, before which a crowd of Indians were waiting, his shrewd eyes were narrow with calculation, and his stubby forefinger was rubbing the grizzled hair under the brim of his hat.

Hardy permitted the mare to choose her own pace.
As he neared the foot of the valley,
he saw Redbear and Olna riding up the creek from the road crossing. The girl dropped in her saddle as if ill. A nervous view continued his suspicions.
Radbear was intoxicated, and he was abusing his sister in the foulest of language. When Hardy approached, the girl averred her shame-redened face, and dropped still lower over her pony's withers. Radbear leered insultingly at the intruder and burst into a drunken laugh. Though his body was reeling, he had almost perfect control of his tongue.

"Look at him, Weena; tho—" Here followed a number of obscene epithets. "That man of yours lost no time. The tin soldier is on the run.
Told you we had fixed him."
"You drunken dog!" said Hardy.
"Keep quiet and go home."
"Who's going to make me?" challenged the halfbreed, his bloodshot eyes flaring with vicious anger. "I don't take any more orders from you.
You'd try to put the killing of Nogen
on me—try to make out it was me shot him, and tried to shoot you those two times! But Van fixed you. He promised to keep you from putting me in jail. That's why I let him have Weena when we went into the mountains."
"You cur!" cried Hardy. "So you permitted him?"

Olna threw up her head with the courage of outraged innocence.
"Why should he stop him from taking me?" she shrieked. "I am only a breed girl, but my man loves me, me only! I had a right to be his wife if I wanted to."

"His wife?" incredulously exclaimed Hardy. "A man of his stamp never could have married you."
"He did! he did!" insisted Olna.
"I thought you too kind to think I would be a bad girl. He married me by tribal custom and the common-law way of white people."

Hardy's sharp gaze softened with pity. "You poor young innocent! Tribal custom is not binding on a white man."

Hardy burst out between pity and indignation: "The scoundrel!—You poor child! Common-law marriage is only half-marriage at best. To make it even that much of a tie, it is necessary that a man and woman should live together as husband and wife openly. He kept this matter secret; he persuaded you and your brother to tell no one—the scoundrel!"

Stricken with grief and shame, Olna uttered a moan and crouched down over her pony's withers, with her face in her hands. But the drink-crazed brain of Radbear comprehended only that Hardy was beating his sister's husband. He made an effort to straighten in the saddle, and his right hand fumbled eagerly for the hit of his revolver. Hardy swore his mare alongside and reached out. Radbear slumped from his saddle like a sack of grain.

Olna slipped down to run to her brother. But Hardy was quicker. He threw himself on the half-dazed drunkard. A skillful wrench loosened the stubborn clutch of the other's fingers on the gun. Disarmed and perhaps partly sobered by the shock, Radbear stretched out on the dusty sod.
"Oh, he's hurt!" gasped Olna.

Hardy rolled the drunkard away from her and spoke sternly: "He is not hurt. Radbear, stand up!"
Radbear gathered himself together and, aided by Olna, staggered away.
The ponies had cantered away.
Hardy led his mare around beside Radbear, and he and Olna, between himself, managed to lift the almost helpless man into the saddle. While they were going the half-mile to the cabin, Hardy led the mare, and Olna, walked beside her brother to steady him in his seat. Neither saw the rider who rode up out of the creek bed beyond the cabin and wheeled from view behind the end wall.

When they reached the house, Hardy helped Radbear dismount before the door and handed him his unloaded revolver. He then lifted his hat to Olna with utmost respectfulness.
"Miss Radbear," he said, "you have been wronged in a most despicable manner. He has lied to you. You must keep away from him. Go back into the mountains with your grandfather. I believe the rascal will soon leave the reservation, and then you will be free from him."

"Thanks for the prophecy, captain,"
came a jeer from the end of the cabin.

They stared about, and saw Vandervyn standing at the corner, his face set in a cynical smile.

"So you've quit soldiering and taken to preaching," he sneered.
"O-o-o-h!" sighed Olna, and she crept toward the mocker, her hands impudently outstretched, her soft eyes brimming over with tears of pitiful entreaty. "Tell him—tell him it isn't true! Tell him our marriage is a real marriage!"

"What a fuss over a little thing like that!" he laughed.

The girl cringed back, and sank down in silent anguish to hide her face.
"For shame, girl!" cried Hardy.
"Have you no shred of decency?"

Vandervyn laughed. Radbear started staggering toward him, the empty revolver concealed behind his back with drunken cunning.
"You think it's funny," he muttered.
"Funny joke! You own up that marriage with her wasn't real like you said it was."

"What if it wasn't?" bantered Vandervyn. "It was good enough for a halfbreed squaw." He smiled at Hardy. "Yes, good enough for any halfbreed or quarterbreed. I'll have Marie next."

Hardy tensed, yet instantly checked
the wrath that would have impelled him to hurl himself at the throat of the mocker. Radbear lacked such iron self-mastery, and liquor had numbed his sense of subservience to Vandervyn. At Marie's name his fury burst out.

"You liar! You thief!" he yelled.
"She's mine! You promised! I'll show you, you—"

flourished his revolver, and brought it down in a wavering attempt to take aim.

Radbear Pitched Backwards.

Hardy did not put up his hands. He bent down to feel the heart of the halfbreed. Shrieking with horror, Olna fell fainting across the body of her brother. Hardy looked up, grim and quiet.

"I hope you are satisfied," he said.
"You have killed him."
Vandervyn kept his revolver pointed at Hardy.

"I shot in self-defense," he snarled.
"Don't you make a move. He had his gun on me—"
"It was empty. I called to you."
"You didn't—till I had fired. I'll shoot you down to save my life. I'll shoot you, too, if you try to draw."

"Get out of here!" ordered Hardy, heedless of the threat. "You've caused trouble enough. Send the new agent
You can tell him that I admit you seem to have been justified."

Vandervyn's menacing attitude reversed. He half lowered his revolver, but kept a wary watch on Hardy as he backed away around the corner of the cabin, and ran to jump on his pony and gallop away. Hardy had sprung up. But it was only to haster into the house for water. He came out with a half-filled bucket, drew Olna over on her back, and dashed water into her face. She opened her eyes saw him, and reddening with shame, turned her face aside. It happened to be toward her brother. Suddenly she drew herself up on her elbow to bend over the gray face.

"Is—Is not dead?" she gasped.
Radbear's lips were moving. Hardy kneel to lift him up to a half-sitting position. He knew by grim experience that with such a wound there was no doubt.

but, he also knew that it would ease the agony to raise the injured man. Olna dampened her brother's forehead. He muttered a curse.
"Not that, boy," warned Hardy. "You

Radbear seemingly did not hear him.
He repeated the curse: "The—I Tu

E. V. Lucas raises in his new volume of essays, "Cloud and Silver,"
the question to which is the best comic story. In "Raphael Meldola," a volume of reminiscences edited by James Marchant, we are told that one of the funniest stories of that distinguished professor referred to Charles Lamb's stammer:
"Somebody—let us say a fellow-clerk
in the India House—had written Lamb with what's my p-p-peculiarity," said Lamb. "Everybody has some p-p-peculiarity," said the other. "What is mine?"
"Well," said Lamb, "I sup-p-pose you stir your tea with your right hand?"
"Why, yes, of course," said the other.
"Ah, p-p-people do it with a spoon."
It is not one of Charles' masterpieces, but—with the stammer—it will perhaps pass with honors.

A special preacher, about to ascend the pulpit in a country church, was asked if he would like any special hymn to be sung to agree with his sermon.

"No, no," he replied; "as a matter of fact, I hardly ever know what I'm going to say until I am in the pulpit."
"That's all right," said the vicar.
"We had better have the hymn,
For Those at Sea."

Prof. Hertzog Praises
This Perfect Laxative

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin
an Ideal Remedy for Constipation.

In every family there is more or less occasion for a laxative remedy.
It is to meet this need that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is prepared, and that this combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin fulfills its purpose is proven by its place in a hundreds of American homes.

Prof. F. J. Hertzog, the well known linguist, 2341 North Orianna St., Philadelphia, Pa., wrote to Dr. Caldwell that he has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in his household with excellent results and that he and his family consider it indeed a friend in need, and always keep a bottle of it on hand.

Constipation is the direct cause of much serious illness and is a condition that should never be neglected.
Harsh cathartics and violent purgatives should never be employed to relieve constipation, because the very violence of their action shocks
the entire system. A mild laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is far preferable, being mild and gentle in its action, without griping or other pain or discomfort; its freedom from all opiate or narcotic drugs makes it an ideal remedy for children.

Prof. F. J. Hertzog, M.D.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to

DEMOCRATIC MASSES KEPT SWEDEN FROM MURDER OF NATIONS

(By Associated Press.)
Stockholm, Nov. 28.—Despite the fact that the Queen of Sweden is a German and the Crown Princess, her mother-in-law, is English, it is said she never have clashed over the war.
The Queen of Sweden, formerly Princess of Baden, has the reputation of being one of the most intelligent women in Sweden. From the start of the war she has been a center of pro-German sentiment. But the Crown Princess, formerly Princess Margaret of Connaught, is said to be the most powerful of women, and the combination of intelligence and tact has prevented a rupture between mother-in-law and daughter-in-law—a relation notoriously hard to maintain.
It is said here that for some weeks ago the Queen is no longer as active as formerly she was reported to be. Until some three months ago she had been right bower her kinsman, son of the late King of Prussia, and a daughter by marriage, Prince Douglas of Ludwig, of Bavaria, and therefore as German as she. His death was a distinct loss to pro-Germans. As Marchioness of the Court, her influence was great, and it was through him mostly that the Queen exerted an influence on the politics of Sweden as they bore upon the war.
The university of Uppsala, oldest and most influential in the country, is another center of conservatism and pro-Germanism. This is perhaps because the University graduates belong to the "ruling classes" or nobility, and the nobility seems to see something menacing to itself in the destruction of the ruling nobles of Germany.

But if Queen, Court, army circles and the nobility, or "ruling classes" of Sweden, are pro-German, why did not Sweden long ago join the war on the side of the Central Powers?
I asked this question of a number of men: bankers, editors and business men. Summed up the reply was this:—
The bulk of the population of Sweden is democratic in the extreme. There is even a fairly strong current in Sweden favoring a Republican form of Government. Once a year regularly, some one gets up and proposes a Republic. He is not howled down. He is not injured as a traitor. He is not imprisoned for lese-majesty. To the contrary, he is listened to quite as though he were proposing the building of a post-office at Haparanda or increasing the tax on tobacco. A debate follows, a warm debate, various members of the body of law-makers stating their views on the subject. Then comes a vote and the Republic is defeated.
The shows the absolute democracy at the bottom of Sweden. The United States, too, have some influence on the national mind, though the "ruling classes" would scarcely admit it.
The population of Sweden outside the big cities, a Swedish editor remarked, "knows more about the United States than they do about any other country." And most of them know Chicago, Minneapolis, New York and other American cities better than they do Stockholm. The reason for this is plain. Many Swedes have met with success here. They like the country. So they write home glowing accounts of the great country, the cities and towns, and tell the folks at home how this and that is done in the states. All this has a direct influence. It may not be pressing and aggressive, but it is constant. Some day, not because it wants to copy any other nation but because the whole tendency of democracy is in that direction and Sweden, heart and soul is democratic. I don't mean we are going to have a revolution or anything like that. Nor do I mean that we are going to become a Republic next week. We will simply evolve into a Republic, do it by vote of the people, by consent of the majority.

"For, believe me, the majority has its say in Sweden and perhaps that is why the Queen, exceedingly intelligent though she is, and all the court officials, nobles and 'ruling classes' have not had any great influence in placing the country on the side of Germany. Like the United States most Swedes do not want war. And though there was danger at one time of Sweden coming in, I believe all danger past now."

AGED MANITOWOC LADY, COUNTY PIONEER, SUCCEUMS

(By Associated Press.)
Manitowoc, Nov. 28.—Mrs. Richard Drows, one of the oldest settlers of Manitowoc county, having come here in the forties, died at her home in Manitowoc, at the age of 82 years. Mr. and Mrs. Drows celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary on November 18.

CIVIC CELEBRATION WILL BE BIG AFFAIR

Arrangements Practically Completed for Dedication of New Street Lighting System.

Plans are progressing for the civic celebration December 14, at which time the city will fittingly dedicate to the people of the community the new ornamental street lighting system. At a meeting of the directors of the Janesville Commercial club yesterday, the program was discussed at some length, and considerable enthusiasm is being displayed among the business men over the proposed ornamental plans for the decoration of the streets during the exercises and for the opening of the holiday shopping period.
The unique idea has been worked out by Edward Amerphol, of the original street lighting committee, which will cause a great deal of favorable comment from not only the citizens of Janesville, but from those who come from a distance to help celebrate this occasion.
Every person within riding distance of Janesville is invited to join with the citizens of Janesville in properly accepting the gift of the city to its people.

In the evening it is planned to have a street parade of the military organizations, bands, etc., and then the final exercises will occur at the Myers Theatre, an open house meeting. N. Witten of Trenton, Missouri, will speak to the people on some phases of community building. Mr. Witten is a very interesting talker and is known all over the country for his work in this connection. A retailer himself, he has worked out a plan which was very successful in his own community and which cemented the friendships of all the people of the community into one big family. There are no boundaries in the world, and this will be the message of Mr. Witten to the people here.

Mr. Curtis of Chicago presented an auto tractor proposition whereby he desired to sell ten thousand dollars worth of stock. The idea was not looked upon with favor by the directors, and inasmuch as there are several other live prospective industries in hand, there is some hope of securing a going concern to locate here.
Plans were discussed pertaining to several of these industries, and it will remain to be seen whether or not the offers to the city are acceptable to the plants in question. Full details of these will be given as soon as definite decision has been reached.
The Commercial club publicity committee has been assigned the duty of entertaining General King while in the city to inspect the new military organization.
The Milk Producers' association asked the Commercial club for financial assistance, which will be rendered on further investigation by Secretary Kuhn.

APPLETON "DRY" LEADERS PLAN STATE-WIDE CAMPAIGN.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 28.—A statewide campaign for prohibition is now being planned by prohibitionist leaders.

Three members of the Efficiency League, Henry Stauffer and empowered by the league to urge the directors of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League to take immediate steps toward the inauguration for state-wide prohibition in Wisconsin. All three are members of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League.
The Efficiency League at first planned to start a prohibition or high license campaign for Appleton, but in view of the wonderful success of the anti-liquor forces in half of the other states in the nation, it was decided to begin at once with the work of lining up Wisconsin in the ranks of the prohibition states.
